FLEXSEED OIL

(Omega 3 6 9)

Flaxseed oil (also known as linseed oil) is derived from the extremely nutritious and disease-preventing flaxseed. Similar to the seed, flaxseed oil is loaded with healthy omega-3s, fatty acids that have been associated with healthier brains and hearts, better moods, decreased inflammation, and healthier skin and hair. With its nutty, slightly sweet flavor, a tablespoon of flaxseed oil is thankfully not one of those health foods that's a torturous addition to your daily routine, which is great news given all the flaxseed oil benefits to your health.

SHALLAKI

(Drops)

It is a blend of unique herbs described in Ayurveda as best anti-inflammatory herbs. These rare herbs are nature's answer to moderate to severe forms of inflammation, swelling and pain. It contains extracts of Shallaki, Mukta pisti, Elachi and Tulsi species. These act together in a synergistic manner and control acute and chronic inflammatory reactions. The active principal, Boswellic acid has been studied extensively for its anti-inflammatory and analgesic property. Salaki also has the property of scavenging the free radicals (anti-oxidants) which help in preventing damage to the joint tissue.

Key Benefits of Ingredients:

- It is mainly used to nourish the joints, promoting healthy function for easy, worry-free activity.
- It is an excellent natural pain relieving herb in cases of various musculoskeletal disorders.
- It helps to maintain healthy joints.
- All natural joint support
- · Powerful anti-inflammatory
- · It may reduce pain and boost physical functioning in people with arthritis
- It helps shrink inflamed tissues (the underlying cause of pain) by improving the blood supply to the affected area.

Uses:

Take 4-5 drops in 10 ml water two Times a Day after meals or as directed by healthcare professional.

Raw instead of refined. Walk instead of ride. Whole grain instead of processed.

Doing the best for your body can really be good for your soul.

Stevia is a green, leafy plant that is native to South America. It has been used for medicinal purposes for many centuries. The plant has also been bred for its strong, sweet flavor and used as a sweetener. However, the refined stevia sweeteners used today often not resemble the whole stevia plant at all. Here is an important point most of the studies use stevia side, the isolated sweet compound. It would be hard to reach pharmacologically active doses of stevioside just by using stevia as a sweetener. It is only about 10% stevioside, by weight.

Key Benefits:

Diabetic Control: The most important or widely praised aspect of stevia for human health concerns its ability to regulate blood sugar levels in the body. Opposed to sucrose, which is what normal table sugar consists of, stevia sweetens food in a similar way as sugar, but it contains stevioside, which is a non-carbohydrate glycoside compound. As explained above, when stevioside breaks down, the glucose-containing particles are absorbed by the bacteria in the colon, rather than being absorbed by the bloodstream and affecting glucose levels in the body. This is an ideal replacement for normal sugar for diabetics or people on carbohydrate-controlled diets, because they can eat sweet foods without having to worry about diabetic complications.

Weight Loss: Stevia is very low in calories and is anywhere from 40-300x sweeter than sugar, depending on the prevalence of certain extracts in the species variety. This means that people can eat foods like cakes, cookies, and candies made with stevia without worrying about gaining a great deal of calories from sugars, so they won't hurt their chances of successfully losing weight.

Blood Pressure: As mentioned, stevioside is a type of glycoside, but there are other glycosides in stevia that can actually relax the blood vessels, increase urination, and facilitate the elimination of sodium from the body. This means that less stress is put on the cardiovascular system and there can be a drop in blood pressure, which protects heart health and prevents certain conditions such as atherosclerosis, heart attacks, and strokes.

Oral Health: Stevia has been found to reduce bacterial formation in the mouth, making it a popular additive for toothpastes and mouthwashes. It also prevents cavities and gingivitis, which sucrose certainly doesn't do!

Uses

Preferentially, stevia is dosed according to taste (as it is used as a sweetener). For prudency, and due to some toxicological data on this herb, an estimated upper daily intake of around 8mg/kg should be used (for a 150lb human, this is 540mg). This dose is within the current recommended intake limits, and is sufficient for anti-inflammatory and anti-oxidant effects but insufficient for any observed toxic or infertility inducing effects of stevia.

KERATIN

(Hair care oil)

Keratin Daily hair oil is formulated with herbs to control pre-mature greying of hair. It is a non sticky hair oil liquid proteins along with natural herbal extracts to provide nourishment to your hair.

Key Benefits:

Keratin oil can help the structure of your hair

Keratin oil can benefit the hair by repairing damage. It works to provide moisture to dry hair, as well as strands that are brittle and chemically-treated.

Keratin oil helps make hair stronger

As keratin oil treats your hair from the inside out, it makes your hair stronger and richer as its protein bonds work their magic to fight against breakage.

Keratin oil helps the look of your hair

Keratin oil can make hair shiny, soft and straight. Over time, keratin oil can repair your hair as it lessens the damage that occurs in your hair.

Keratin oil isn't permanent

Unlike keratin treatments, keratin oil isn't a permanent solution but a temporary option to help with repairing damaged hair.

Keratin oil can help with heat damage

Blow drying your locks and flattening your strands sure makes your hair look gorgeous, but it's also contributing to the issue. Keratin oil can help protect your strands as it coats and seals in your hair. Use a small amount prior to any heat styling as it helps your strands, resulting in shiny and gorgeous locks.

Keratin oil can help with frizz

Taming frizz and flyaways is one of those hair issues that isn't going away anytime soon. One solution is to use keratin oil to treat and calm the frizz. Be sure to use a small amount as it delivers smooth and touchable hair. A serum that we love with keratin is the TRESemmé Keratin Smooth Serum that's safe for color-treated hair and works to tame annoying frizz.

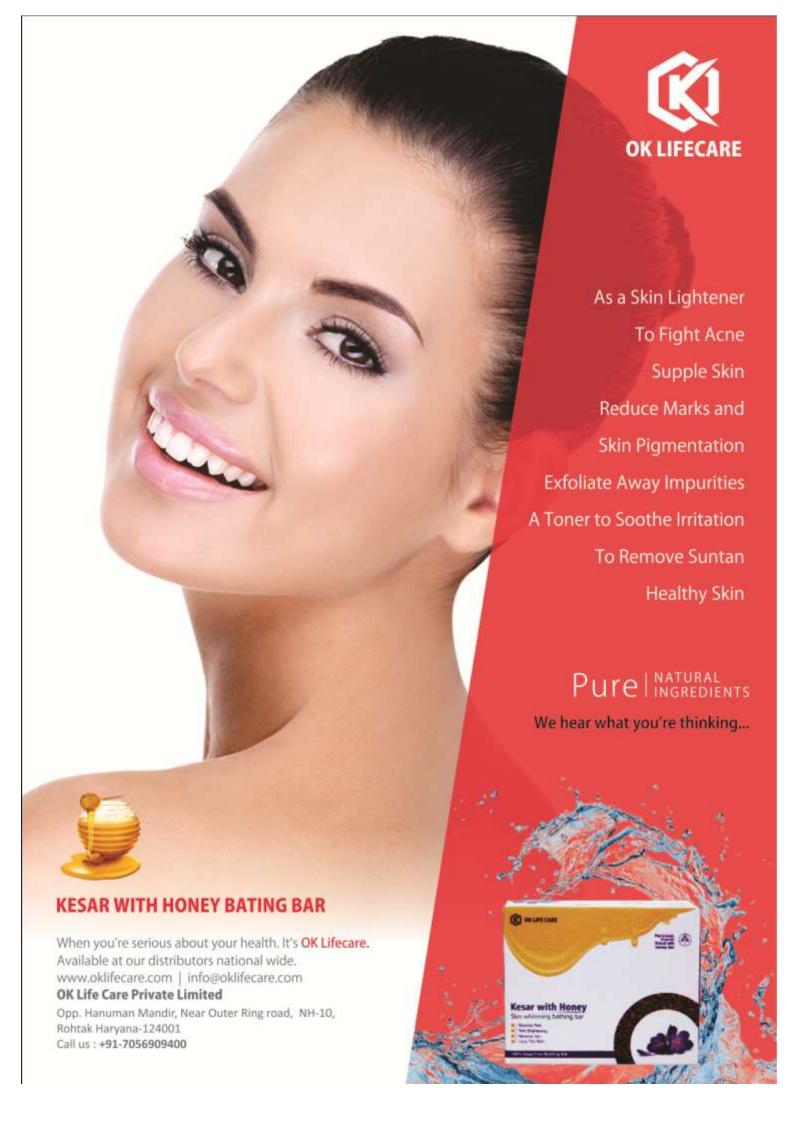

Uses:

Massage gently Keratin hair oil on the clean and dry scalp with finger tips until it gets absorbed into the scalp. Keep overnight for best results.

Raw instead of refined. Walk instead of ride. Whole grain instead of processed.

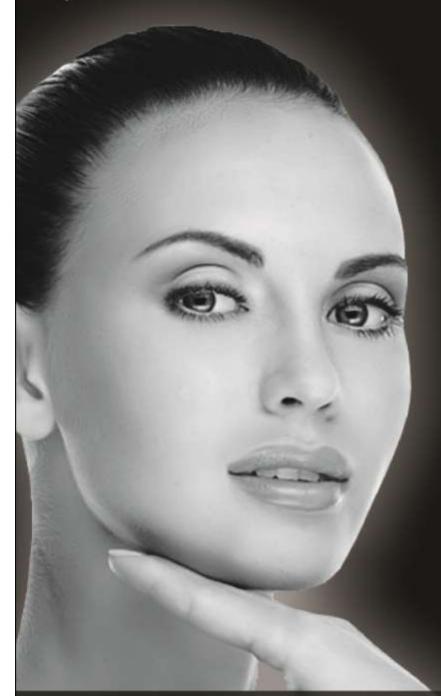

Doing the best for your body can really be good for your soul.

DUST OUT

(Natural Handwash)

Our natural hand wash is ideal for frequent use for all skintypes.

Liquid soaps have increased in popularity as they are both hygienic and create little mess in both the home and office.

Utilising essential oils and organic ingredients, our natural vegan hand wash is SLS and paraben free, so they are ideal as a frequent use product for all skin types.

Our customers especially enjoy aromas of our aloe vera and tea tree with antibacterial qualities and lavender and geranium hand washes. Why not pick yourself up a bottle from Faith in Nature today.

Key Benefits:

- · Natural and Free of Toxins
- · Often Organic, Vegan and Fair Trade
- Doesn't Encourage Super Bacteria
- Lathers Easily
- Safe for Kids
- · Environmentally Friendly
- · An Incredibly Versatile Product

Aside from its super natural formulation, one of the biggest reasons to use Dust out hand wash is due to its versatility! Below we reveal eighteen wonderful ways to use Dust out hand wash.

Uses:

Use the gentle cycle when washing better garments. It's often as gentle and effective as hand washing while the agitation of a regular washing cycle may be damaging. What goes in the gentle Cycle? Your favorite washable silk blouse, cotton knit (unconstructed) dress, spandex bike shorts - all the clothes you don't want to take a chance on. What doesn't go in the gentle cycle? Ordinary detergents, which may work great on grass-stained jeans but may be too harsh on your finer clothes.
